Mission:

Evaluating and supporting mayor-sponsored public charter schools
The Office of Education Innovation (OEI) is a charter school authorizer responsible for evaluating and supporting the academics, finances, and operations of mayor-sponsored public charter schools that educate about 18,000 students across the city. Our staff also closely reviews charter school proposals to ensure high-quality, accessible, and equitable plans. Final chartering decisions are made by the Indianapolis Charter School Board, and renewal decisions are made by OEI.
