Mission:

New York City is a global leader in the fight against the climate crisis, shifting our city away from polluting fossil fuels and towards a green and just economy. The Mayor's Office of Climate and Environmental Justice (MOCEJ) is a team of architects, lawyers, data and climate scientists, engineers, policy advisors, geologists, and city planners leading the City's strategy to create a city where our 8.5 million New Yorkers can live, work, learn, and play in healthy, resilient, and sustainable neighborhoods — now and into the future.

MOCEJ works to make our buildings efficient and resilient, ensure our infrastructure is climate-ready, transform our streets and public realm into living, open spaces, and make our energy clean and resilient.

Through science-based analysis, policy and program development, and capacity building, and with a focus on equity and public health, MOCEJ leads the City's efforts to ensure that New York City is both reducing its emissions and preparing to adapt and protect New Yorkers from the intensifying impacts of climate change.
